

WEBS OF EMPIRE

Locating New Zealand's Colonial Past

TONY BALLANTYNE

UBC Press · Vancouver · Toronto

CONTENTS

Preface: Connections, Comparisons and Commonalities	6
Acknowledgements	9
Note on Language and Usage	12
INTRODUCTION: Relocating Colonial Histories	13
REFRAMING COLONIALISM	25
1. Race and the Webs of Empire	26
CONNECTIONS	51
2. Writing Out Asia	52
3. Teaching Māori About Asia	67
4. India in New Zealand	84
5. Te Anu's Story	107
EMPIRE	125
6. Sealers, Whalers and the Entanglements of Empire	126
7. Christianity, Colonialism and Cross-Cultural Communication	139
8. War, Knowledge and the Crisis of Empire	161
WRITING	179
9. Archives, Empires and Histories of Colonialism	180
10. Mr Peal's Archive	192
11. Paper, Pen and Print	207
12. Writing and the Culture of Colonisation	230
PLACE	247
13. Thinking Local	248
14. On Place, Space and Mobility	266
CONCLUSION: Writing the Colonial Past	285
Editorial Note	298
Endnotes	300
Index	361